Jennyfer's Story

“I was born with a congenital heart defect called transposition of the great vessels (TGV). Following the first surgery, I had pulmonary artery stenosis, partly repaired during the second surgery. Since then, I have always been followed for this stenosis and another small thing. My parents had a lot of help from the En Cœur Foundation when I was a baby. It's therefore with great pleasure that I wish to offer my help as an ambassador. I will offer my support since the cause is close to my heart. A very special thank you to my wonderful parents who knew how to fight as much as I did in my first months of life. Thank you for your continued support in difficult times. Love.”
